The Ontological Argument - The instantaneous birth of the matter, time, and space in our universe requires a transcendent supernatural cause.

The Anthropic Principle - The extreme fine tuning of a myriad of physical constants needed for life to be present in our universe points to the existence and work of an intelligent and intentional Designer.

The Genesis Creation Account - The sequence of events in the Genesis creation account highly correlates with the same sequence in modern science when they are phenomenologically described from the surface of the earth.

The Origin of Languages and People Groups - The origin of languages and races in the Levant prior to the first civilization on earth correlates with the same recorded account in early Genesis.

The History of Israel - The history of Israel can be largely and increasingly verified through archaeological research and shows exact fulfillment up to the present age of what the law and the prophets predicted.

The Prophets and the Nations - Specific fulfillment of prophecies concerning multiple cities, nations, and empires made centuries before their realization shows that God knows and controls the future.

The Prophets and the Messiah - Jesus is the only viable candidate in history to fulfill the identity, time of appearance, biography, and work of the Messiah as predicted by the prophets of Israel.

The Historical Christ - The biographical life and ministry of Jesus Christ depicted in the New Testament is documented by more Christian, Jewish and Roman sources than any other person of ancient history.

From Christ to Now – The prophets, apostles, and Christ combined to predict the future of Israel, the spread of the gospel, and the condition of the world which has been fulfilled in detail over the past two millennia and up to the present day.

Things to Come - The prophets, apostles, and Christ combine to predict the end of the age for which geo-political and cultural trends today align in a clearly favorable manner with the probable fulfillment of what they said.

The history of the world has followed the exact plan of God as revealed in the scriptures from the beginning of the universe up to the present time and can be projected from current events to continue into the future.
